Impressions of Harbin

Harbin is located in northeast China, in the southwestern part of Heilongjiang Province. It is the provincial capital, a sub-provincial city, and a mega-city. Serving as the political, economic, and cultural center of the northern region in Northeast of China. Harbin blends the cultural heritage of northern ethnic minorities and it combines Chinese and foreign cultures. Known as the "City of Ice", the "Oriental Moscow" and the "Oriental Paris". Harbin is the music captital of the world, a nationally renowned historic and cultural city, and a famous tourist destination. The total area of the city spans 53,100 square kilometers, with an urban area of approximately 10,200 square kilometers.

Historical Overview

Harbin has a long history. Human activity in the area dates back to the Paleolithic era, around 20,000 years ago. Over time, it became home to the ancestors of the Manchu people and the birthplace of the Jin Dynasty. In 1115 AD, the Jin Dynasty established its capital at Shangjing Huining Fu (present-day Acheng District). Following China's reform and opening-up policies, Harbin transformed from a single-industry city into a multifunctional regional center.

Physical Geography

Harbin lies between 125° 41′–130° 13′ east longitude and 44 ° 03′–46 ° 40′ north latitude. The city experiences a temperate monsoon climate, with average summer temperatures (June to August) of 22.3 °C and winter temperatures (December to February) averaging -14.6 °C. Known for its long winters and short summers, Harbin is dubbed the "Ice city and Summer resort". The city is home to 20 wetland parks. Harbin is one of the first cities globally recognized as an "International Wetland City" with a forest coverage rate of 41.5%. The area contains 63 identified mineral resources, 25 of which are proven to be industrially viable.

Culture and Tourism

Harbin boasts both lush landscapes and snowy wonders, making it an ideal destination for cultural and nature-based tourism. The city features a unique blend of Eastern and Western architectural styles, a rich and enduring music culture, and a vibrant and inclusive fashion scene, earning it titles like "Music Captital of The World" and "Cultural Capital of East Asia".Harbin is also known as the "City of Olympic Champions" and will host the 9th Asian Winter Games in 2025, making it China's first "City of Double Asian Winter Games". The city is set to present a spectacular winter sports event characterized by "Asian charm, Chinese features, wonderful and varied" to the world.
